It is one of two summer chapels in the state on the National Register of Historic Places. Pews seat approximately 120 people. Of special interest are the stained glass windows, some of which are original Tiffany stained glass. Emmanuel calls two priests-in-residence each summer (one in July, one in August) who reside in the adjacent rectory. The church has an organist and a small pipe organ.

When railroads brought an influx of wealthy summer visitors to Lake Sunapee, Episcopal services in New London were held in a schoolhouse near the lake's eastern shore for 22 years. Old Saint Andrew's, designed in the Gothic Revival style with charming Adirondack touches, was consecrated in 1909. A modern church was built in town in 1964 and now Old Saint Andrew's hosts the St. Andrew's community on summer Sundays.

Dedicated in 1907, the Church of the Transfiguration was built in memory of Joseph Stickney, the builder of the adjacent Mount Washington Hotel. These depict the 12 disciples along the side walls, the Ascension in the back, and the Transfiguration as the altar piece.

St. Francis Chapel, Marlborough

Location: Kershaw Avenue at Stone Pond

Services: 9 a.m. Sundays in July and August

The Chapel of St. Francis among the trees at Stone Pond, Marlborough was built in 1926 by Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kershaw, who lived in the large red house at the edge of the pond. Mr. Kershaw designed the chapel from “peasant chapels” he had seen in Europe. The bell was given in 1929, hung in a belfry and rung for daily services for some years; after the belfry had to be removed, it was installed in the present stone arch in 1979. A large carved wooden crucifix hangs on the outside wall of the north side of the chapel, reminiscent of the wayside shrines on the mountains of Europe.

The present chapel, built in 1901, is a plain meeting house with an exterior of white clapboard with burgundy trim and interior sheathed in North Carolina Pine stained brown. The painting of the Transfiguration above the altar was done by the Rev. Thomas S. Kline, who conducted services for 23 summers. The triptych which frames the painting was the work of Shepard Vogelgesang and his sister Zenaide Bradley. Services have been continuous in this mission since 1895.

Widely known as the most photographed church in New England, St. Matthew's is noted for its simple, dignified architecture. The white-shingled exterior, set among fields of lupine in June and brilliant foliage in autumn, hints subtly at the rustic character of the interior. Three of the four beautiful stained glass windows gracing the chapel today came from a church in Cold Springs Harbor, New York, where they had been given by the Cammann-Lipson family.

St. Andrew's-by-the-Sea is only steps away from the ocean, right off Ocean Boulevard in Rye Beach. It is one of two summer chapels in the state on the National Register of Historic Places. The building was completed in 1877. The architecture and lychgate for carriages were inspired by English country churches. St. Andrew's takes an active role in its Seacoast community and beyond by being supporters of organizations focused on the needs of vulnerable children and families struggling with homelessness, hunger, domestic violence, and abuse. The chapel also hosts a summer concert series and an annual Christmas event, Candlelight Caroling.

St. Timothy's Chapel is operated by St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Lancaster. St. Timothy's Chapel was built by the families of the “Lost Nation” neighborhood on the outskirts of Lancaster and completed in 1893. It remains a simple country church today, with a woodstove for heat, and no electricity or plumbing.
